

CED Welcomes Tammy Kim-Newman, Associate Director of Employer & Alumni Engagement

Tammy Kim-Newman will be joining Career Education & Development (CED) in the unit's new position of Associate Director of Employer and Alumni Engagement.

Joining CED from Co-operative Education at the University of Waterloo, Tammy has spent over ten years supporting students at all levels of their career paths while working with employers to meet their recruitment needs.

During her time as the Account Manager for Employer Relations, and Business Developer for Market Outreach at the University of Waterloo, she worked closely with employers to fine tune recruitment and talent management strategies and source candidates from within the university's student population. Most recently, she was the project lead for an initiative aimed at increasing employment opportunities for tech students. Her strategic plan was rooted in research on industry growth and building partnerships with targeted associations at the regional, provincial and national scale.

The CED Events, Recruitment, and Alumni Liaison team is excited to work closely with Tammy to develop a comprehensive strategy to optimize employer and alumni outreach across the university, while bridging collaborative partnerships with York's on-campus community.

Welcome, Tammy!
